

What's the difference between arrays and objects with number keys?

What does the `length` property of an array really represent?

How are subscripts on arrays different than in Java?

What's a quick way to delete lots of properties of an array?

Append to an array.

Delete from an array without leaving a whole.

What are the limitations of `for-in` on arrays?

What's the solution?

Why it difficult to distinguish between arrays and objects?