

Eliminating global variables used in a function by passing their values as parameters to the function.