

In one word, the front-end of a compiler does what?

The back-end?

The front-end's analysis can be broken into what three stages?

How are lexers typically defined and implemented?