How are variables created?

Create a variable with limited, lexical scope.

Apparent re-assignments are actually what?

What is the anonymous function syntax?

How can parens be avoided, in general?

What is the syntax of function application?

How are types written?

Which way do they associate?

How are functions partially applied?

What syntactic sugar is provided for declaring named functions?