Where can named parameters be used?

What are the three ways of giving arguments to parameters?

What happens to default parameters when inheritence is used?

What is the negative consequence of named parameters?

What feature will will 2.8.1 probably include to mitigate this problem?