Data structures and abstract data types.

A data structure, typically a tree, of the program being compiled.

With grammars.

A program without loops and conditionals.